

caillou

Book 6-4

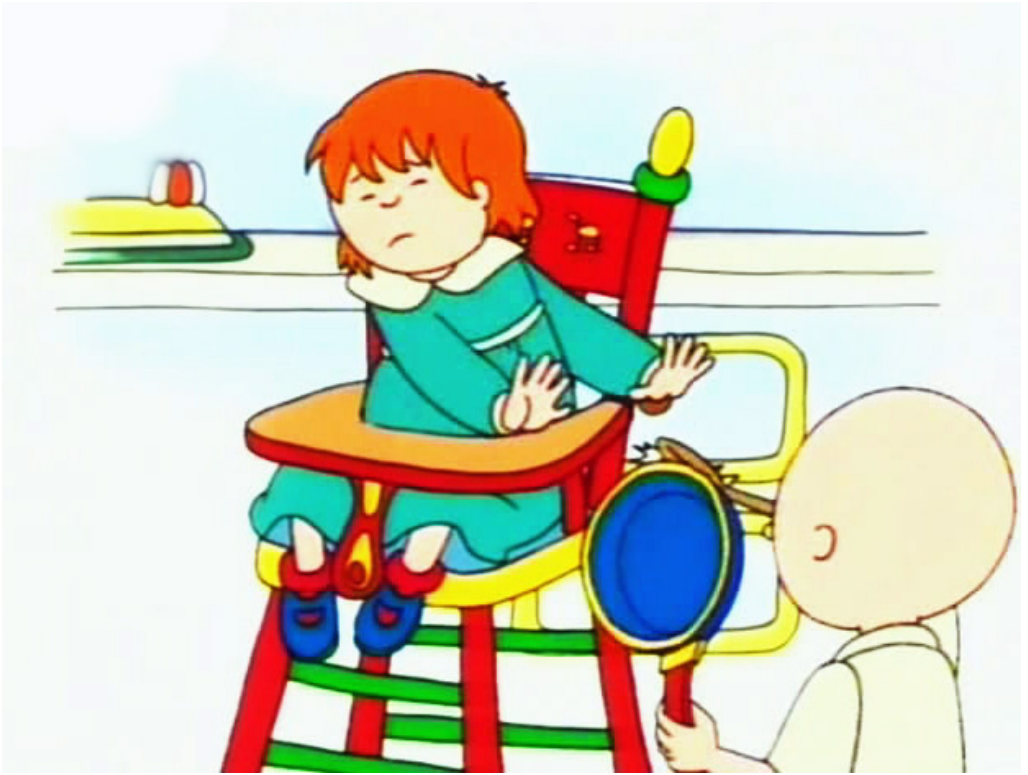

Storyteller: It's story time, kids.
Now, I wonder what Caillou did today.
Today's story is called "Caillou is a Clown".

Caillou: Guess what, Rosie? We're going to a parade.

Rosie: Parade. Parade.

Caillou: Hey, Rosie. We're going to the parade.

Mommy: Oh, Caillou. I don't know about this.

Caillou: What's the matter, Mommy?

Mommy: I don't know if it's such a good idea to go to the parade.

Caillou: Why not? Mommy, I want to go to the parade.

Mommy: There'll be clowns, Caillou, and you know Rosie's really afraid of clowns.

Caillou: No, she isn't. Not any more. I wanna go.

Storyteller: Caillou was miserable and angry. It wasn't fair.

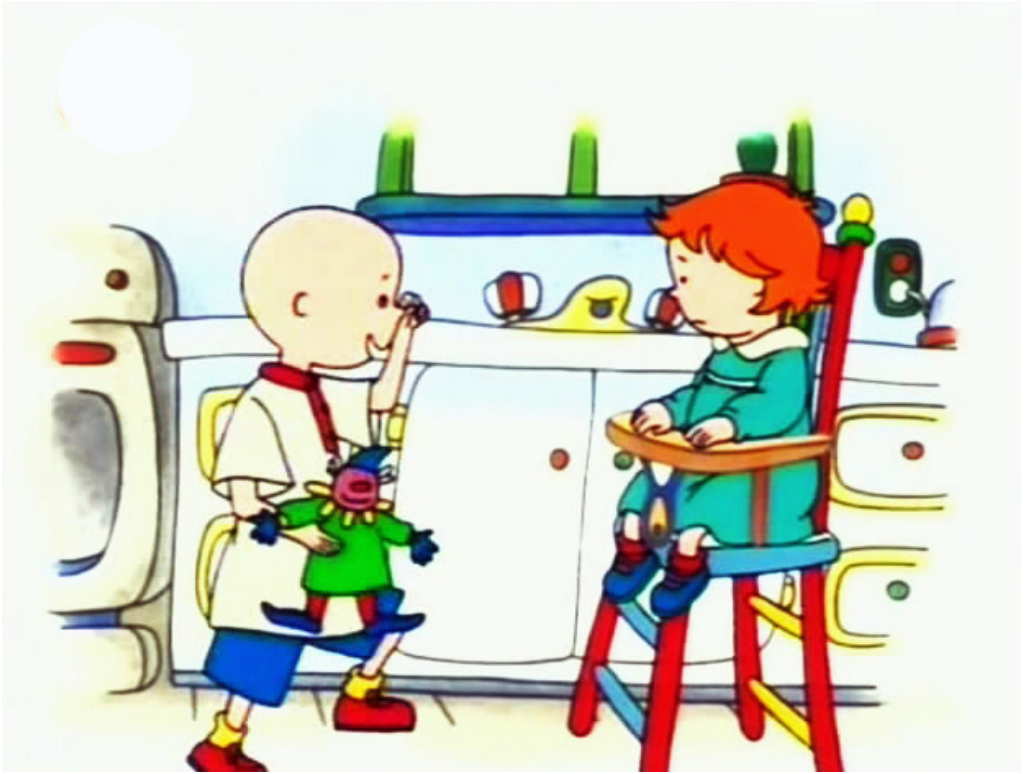

Caillou: Why can't we go? Just because Rosie's a silly baby.

Mommy: Remember, Caillou, you used to be afraid of clowns too when you were little like Rosie.

Well, what are we going to do now?

Storyteller: Then Caillou had an idea.

Caillou: See, Rosie? It's not scary. Oh, Rosie, it's only a doll.
I know, Mommy. I'll cover her eyes when the clowns come by.

Mommy: Come on, Caillou. Let's go up to your room.

Caillou: Why?

Mommy: I have an idea. Maybe we can go to the parade, but I need your help.

Storyteller: Caillou just couldn't imagine what Mommy's idea could be.

Mommy: Let's see. These'll do. Let's show Rosie that clowns aren't scary because they're only people wearing clown clothes.

Caillou: Okay. Look, Rosie. Peek.

Rosie: Peek.

Caillou: Look, hair. See, Rosie? Clowns are funny.

Caillou: No, Rosie, like this. See? Silly cat.

Mommy: Look, Rosie, you're a clown.
Beep.

Storyteller: So now Rosie wasn't scared of clowns any more.

Rosie: Rosie, Look.

Mommy: Okay, kids, I guess we can go to the parade now.

Caillou & Rosie: Yeah!

Mommy: Hold still, Rosie. Are my two clowns ready to go?

Caillou & Rosie: Yes. Let's go!
